NEW WRINKLE IS NOT UNDERSTOOD

State Auditor Sends Warrant Covering Sum Due County From School Apportionment.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SIGN IT

And Send it Back, Which Would Mean County Had Money And Then it Didn't

The state officials have "pulled" a new one on the county officials here. A voucher and warrant covering Rush County's portion of the semi-annual school apportionment was received here this morning with directions not to deposit it in the banks, but to endorse and send it back to the treasurer of state. Thus the county gets the $10,539.20 on paper but doesn't get the actual cash.

Deputy Treasurer Frazee was at a loss to understand this kind of business and called the auditor of state's office. He was informed that when the warrant was returned the county would receive a certificate of deposit would do is hard to understand as the money received back from the settlement with the state is immediately divided among the township trustee for school purposes.

Some counties estimate the amount they will receive back from the state and then deduct this amount from the total they send to the state. Officials say that the state auditor's office may be under the impression that Rush county deducted this $10,539.20 from the June settlement, but this was not done and is never done here. The trustees are calling for their money but all the treasurer here has is the warrant with the instruction "not to deposit in a bank."

It is stated that perhaps Dale J. Crittenger, auditor of state, is figuring on keeping this money in Indianapolis banks, but this is impossible as the money has to be distributed here and will be as soon as it is received. The county has the money, but it hasn't. Here-to-fore these state warrants have been deposited in the banks and were payable the same as checks. This was done in the January settlement and the change of business methods is puzzling the officials here. The letter follows:

E. S. Phillips, Governor of Wisconsin, has been invited to make the speech at the Third District love feast, to be held at West Baden, Aug. 12. HARRY CROCKETT DECLARED INSANE

Man Held in Seymour Pending Investigation of Wife's Death Near Glenwood Mentally Off

RAVES ALL NIGHT IN JAIL

Harry Crockett, who has been held in jail in Seymour since July 5 pending the investigation of the death of his wife near Glenwood, Sunday, July 4, was yesterday declared insane by physicians at Seymour and will be taken to the Southeastern Indiana hospital for the insane.

Crockett who was taken into custody on the theory that he was responsible for the death of his wife, and who was fined last week on an old charge of assault and battery, has been acting in a queer manner for several days, and Saturday expressed the belief that he was to be electrocuted. Sunday night his condition grew worse and his screams and wails could be heard for blocks. He yelled, howled and sang from ten o'clock until half past two Monday morning without a stop, and was at it again Monday morning at five o'clock.

A few visitors at the jail expressed the belief that Crockett was feigning insanity, but the doctor's examination revealed the fact that he was mentally off.

WATER FAMINE IS HISTORY NOW

Reservoir is Running Over And There is no Danger of Recurrence of Old Shortage

METERS ARE RESPONSIBLE

Revenue is Reduced Sixty Per Cent But City Will Not Lose Because of Saving

There is no water famine in sight for Rushville this summer. The city water and light plant has plenty of water, in fact the big reservoir overflows at times and there has not been a single day this summer that the water has not stood at fifteen feet and over, and on one or two occasions some of the wells have been cut off.

This abundance of water is accounted for by the fact that the city is now on a meter system and there is no waste of water as in former years. The city has installed between 800 and 900 meters in use and there are probably 80 yet to be installed.

At the same time the revenue from water collections has fallen off about sixty per cent. This naturally will hit the city finances hard but now great difficulty is expected as it is pointed out that while the revenue has decreased, the cost of operation has also decreased. Superintendent Mahan stated this morning while the revenue had decreased about sixty per cent there was sixty-five per cent less water consumed this summer in comparison with other years and this decrease in water consumed in a way tends to offset the loss in revenue.

With a less amount of water used the cost of pumping and operating the plant is lessened. At times the compressor at the plant is barely working because the big reservoir is full of water. The saving from coal alone this summer, because of a decrease in water consumed will, it is estimated be about $1,200. This saving in fuel will help offset the loss from revenue. The city officials believe that the added fire protection afforded by an abundance of water is certainly worth the loss in money from revenue.

The revenue loss would not be nearly so great if the public service commission would ever act on the petition of the city asking for an increase in rates and calling for a minimum charge. The commission has evidently been doing a nice case of stalling, according to the officials here. The petition was filed over a year ago and no decision has been reached. The commission is "sore" at the city because of the fight made on the gas cases. The city has filed suit to test the law under which the commission was founded and it is practically certain that this administration will not get any place now with the state body.

Under the minimum charge as asked for by the city, every water tap in this city would net $4 a year whether or not that much water was used and it is figured this would help. The increase in rates asked is from $1.50 a thousand cubic feet to $1.85 a thousand feet. Some persons in the city have used as low as thirty cents worth of water in three months and under the minimum charge the bill would be one dollar. The public service commission is not liked by this administration and it is pretty certain the feeling is mutual, it is said.

The Women's Relief Corps will hold its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock in the court house.

HIGHWAY MEET ON TOMORROW

Marion Association of Commerce Phones Here Urging Automobile Delegation to Come.

LOOP OF DIXIE IS PROPOSED

Following Meeting in Morning Guests Will go to Wabash by Auto For a Smoker.

Tom M. Morgan, business manager of the Marion Association of Commerce in a telephone message here today, urged that Rushville send at least an automobile load of boosters to Marion tomorrow for the meeting to exploit the loop of the Dixie Highway out of Cincinnati by way of this city to Elkhart where it would connect with the Lincoln Highway.

The date of the meeting was originally set for Friday, but it is now announced that it will take place Wednesday instead. According to Mr. Morgan, word has been received from towns all along the line that representatives will be present, with the exception of Greensburg.

The original intention of the Marion Association of Commerce was to run the spur from Cincinnati to Greensburg and thence to Marion and north by way of Rushville. Since Greensburg has not displayed any interest in the project, Rushville is going to propose that the loop pass over "Dixie Short Line" by way of Brookville, which is the logical and short route.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce voted at their last meeting to send a representative to the Marion meeting, but today it was hoped that at least one automobile load would make the trip because of the interest that is being shown.

Mr. Morgan said over the telephone that automobile delegations had reported to him they were coming from all along the territory. He said the first meeting would be held in Marion Wednesday morning at ten o'clock and that in the afternoon the crowd would go by automobile to Wabash, where the Chamber of Commerce will entertain with a smoker.

The Marion Association of Commerce has sent out the following circular appealing to cities in the

GLAD OF CHANCE TO SERVE NATION

Thomas A. Edison Formerly Notifies Secretary Daniels of His Acceptance Today.

ON CIVILIAN NAVAL BOARD

Famous Inventor Says he Had Refrained From Offering His Services—Feels Patriotic Duty.

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 13.—Official notification that Thomas A. Edison will serve gladly on a civilian board of naval invention and development reached Secretary Daniels today.

M. R. Hutchinson, the inventor's personal representative presented the latter's acceptance.

Edison, he said, had refrained from offering his service in the past but now felt that he was called upon to perform a sacred duty for the country he loves and will send a letter in a few days expressing his appreciation of the honor the secretary has conferred on him.

A naval revolution as important as the one caused by the Monitor's invention was predicted by Secretary Daniels as a result of his success in enlisting Edison as the department's advisor.

It was with the warm approval of the naval board that the secretary extended a request to Edison to come to the navy's aid and that he will make a similar request shortly to such others as Orville Wright, John Hays Hamond, Henry Ford, Mickola Telsa, Cooper Hewitt and Professor Lewis Johnson to assist him in making out a series of naval experimental problems. Special attention will be paid to an effort to increase the efficiency of submarines and aeroplanes.

Swanson Died With Stoical Indifference of An Indian

Final Chapter of Life Of Only Man Who Ever Swung From Gallows in Rush County As Related By J. Arnold, An eyewitness.

(This is the second and last of two papers entitled "Reminiscences of An Old Settler," by te late John Arnold, which were published in the Republican forty years ago and dealt with the life and hanging of Swanson, the only man to meet such a fate in Rush county.)

Arnold Home, March 6, 1875. Friend Drebert:—I will now, as briefly as possible, give the surroundings and circumstances of the murder of Elish Clark, which happened October 4, 1828.

At that time my father lived on his farm and kept store. He had rented his land to Swanson, who lived in a house not more than a rod from the one in which he himself resided. The two houses were on a line on the north side originally, but my father had subsequently erected the store room and porch the whole length of it, so that the store extended some twenty feet farther north than the house in which Swanson lived. Between the two houses was a board fence with a gate in it.

I mention these particulars so that the readers may clearly understand the circumstances of the killing. On October the 4th the muster was held at my father's store and as was customary on such occasions, the company indulged pretty freely in drinking old Donoghahela whiskey (Bourbon had not then attained its high reputation). In the evening after the rest had gone home, Elish and Lewis Clark and Richard Blackledge still remained in the store. My father was tired and wished to shut up, had gone into

MARY J. VANCE ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Files Suit Today Against J. Frank Vance Alleging he is an Habitual Drunkard.

WANTS RESTRAINING ORDER

Mary J. Vance filed suit for divorce today from J. Frank Vance, alleging that he is an habitual drunkard and failure to provide. Mrs. Vance asks for the custody of their three children and alimony in the sum of $1,500. The complaint states that they separated on July 9, 1915. She alleges that she was compelled to work in order to help support the family and that he didn't provide. The children are Florence, William and Evelyn.

Mrs. Vance alleges that he is worth $3,000 and at present is threatening to dispose of the property in order to cheat her out of any alimony. She asks that he be restrained from disposing of any of his property and that he not be permitted to come around where she is working. During the pendency of the action she asks $10 a week support money. Mrs. Vance filed a similar suit some time ago, but it was dismissed before it came to trial.

ALIENIST IS GOOD WITNESS FOR THAW

Dr. Austin Flint Maintains One Point That Harry K. is Hopelessly Incurable Paranoiac.

USES EXAMPLE IN COURT

(By United Press.) New York, July 13.—When Dr. Rustin Flint, the state's star alienist, stepped from the stand today after a hot cross examination, the general verdict was that he had made Harry K. Thaw's best witness. Dr. Flint was able to maintain only one assertion—that Harry K. Thaw is now and always has been a hopelessly incurable paranoiac. Flint was asked whether he regarded Thaw normal at present.

"No, I don't," he said. "I wouldn't call his efforts to hypnotize me right here in the court room those of a normal man."

In the laughter that went up Thaw's voice could be heard.

Obituary.

ROLLEN DAVIS.

I cannot praise thee well enough. For ah; my words are frail Thy life was full of kindly deeds. And these must tell the tale.

Rollen A. Davis oldest child of William and Harriet Mohler Davis was born in Rushville, Indiana, on May 18, 1854 and after living 61 years, one month and thirteen days, on the afternoon of July 1, 1915, passed away from this life.

Rollen Davis resided near the place of his birth all the years that he lived and on January 2 in the year 1881 was married to Miss Alice Owens, daughter of John and Susan Owens then residing near Dunreith Indiana.

To this marriage came five children, Vern, Clara, Ethel and Goldie. In 1885 on October 5, little Clayton, age 2 years, died.

This now leaves with the mother, to mourn the loss of a devoted and kind father, Vern, second child. Mrs. Clara Sweet and her two children, Reginald and Denzel and Mrs. Ethel Wright and her two fatherless children Melvin and Opal Wright and Mrs. Goldie Parker with her two children, Alice Mae and Loren.

To Melvin and Opal Wright, Rollen Davis combined not only the care of grandfather but father for these children. As shortly after the death of their father he took them to his home and gave them love and care which they will ever remember as a sweet memory of their dear grandfather.

The mother of Rollen Davis died in the year 1882, on August 2 and nearing 25 years after, his father departed this life on April 11th, 1907.

Rollen Davis was the oldest of a family of nine children, two of these died in infancy, and his sister Katie and Mrs. Anna Clark died after reaching maturity, those that survive to mourn their brother, are Mrs. Caloney Redding of Raleigh, Mrs. Charles Black of Krypton, Marshall Davis of Elwood, James Davis of Krypton with William who now resides with Mrs. Redding.

When a man dies his outside world does not ask, how much money did he have, or what great things did he do for the world at large, but it asks, was he a good citizen, a good son, husband and father, was he a good neighbor, industrious and pleasant and agreeable, to live and deal with?

In the case of Rollen Davis all of these essential qualifications can be assured with a hearty yes, for he was all of these, to which was added an extremely gentle disposition a strong noticeable desire if he could say no good of anyone, to not dwell upon their evil.

He belonged to that great army of industrial workers of the world, workman that make for the world's progress and its good and with all of its vast resources for wealth could not for long do without he was closely industrious working early and late for the dear ones in his home to whom he was never cross and unkind and ever thoughtful and loving toward, so intent was he upon his duty that even after death had set its great seal upon him and its order to come away—away from earth and its hardships, he still struggled on at his work, planning to the end to go back to it now very soon, it seems a blessing not given to many that his call was a short one, and to the last he could keep hopefully saying, I am not in pain, I am getting better, and so he was for in eternity there is no sickness. And while we consider the frail body to the earth from which it came, that which is best of him has gone on to where—Beyond the last horizons rim Beyond adventures furthest quest, Some where they rise serene and dim,

The Happy Happy hills of rest, Upon their sunny slopes uplift, The castles we have built in vain.

While far amid the summer drift, Our faded hopes will bloom again, They all are there the day draws They build the inner lives of men.

The silent, sacred years we deem the might be and the might have been

Some evening when the sky is gold, we'll follow day into the west.

Nor pause, nor heed, till we behold the Happy, Happy hills of rest.

A FRIEND.

Prompt Achievement
(Meadville Pa. Tribune-Republican)
When William McKinley entered the White House on March 4, 1897, after four years of Democratic national control, the session of Congress to undo the prosperity-wrecking and deficit making laws of the preceding four years was the first thing determined on.

He had the new Congress in session March 15, had a protective tariff bill through the House March 31, and had it enacted into law on July 24. In other words, in less than five months time the Wilson-Gorman law was on the statute books and a prosperity making law was substituted without the loss of valuable time.

Manufacturers and business men responded with enthusiasm to the new prospects, and there followed the greatest era of industrial development the country ever knew.

President McKinley realized his duty as the "advance agent of prosperity." He had no fear of Congress in extra session. "The people have only recently voted that this (a protective tariff enacted) shall be done," he declared in his inaugural, "and nothing is more binding upon the agents of their will than the obligation of immediate action."

The McKinley example of prompt achievement is precisely what the people today are determined shall be followed by the Republican President sure to enter the White House on March 4, 1917. His name is of no great consequence; but his purpose is, and the more closely it parallels the McKinley way of quickly restoring prosperity, the more emphatic will be the majority vote cast for him in the election of 1916.

William Allen White says that the Republicans of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois are a bunch of thieves, porch climbers and crooks.

Probably the Kansas editor needs the money he receives for writing epithets for the sensational magazines, and if that's the only way he can make his stuff interesting nobody is going to begrudge him what he gets out of it. It has been apparent for a long time that Editor White had worked the ore-bearing stratum out of his literary mine and that there was nothing left for him to dig but muck.

HOOSIER HISTORY

Prepared for the United Press by the Centennial Department of the Indiana Historical Commission.

William Smith, storekeeper and first postmaster of Lafayette was in habit of saluting with a "big gun" on the arrival of the steamboat as they "rounded to" at the foot of Main street. The gun was a stump in front of the store which he bored and charged heavily, setting it off with a slow match. When trade was dull he would fire off the stump in false alarm to bring in the people to trade with him. One day he inserted the plug into the side of the stump facing his store. On hearing the report the villagers ran to see the steamer. On passing the store they saw Enterprising Smith lying on the floor in the midst of broken crockery and debris. The prostrate merchant was picked up and as he began to regain his wits, asked anxiously "Is Monser safe?"—Adapted from Cox, "Old Settlers."

Elmer Humes tells a good one on some Milroy Merchant. It is known all over Rush county that Milroy's love for marbles is proverbial. It dates back to the founding of the town. Everybody is a marble fan.

It is related that one day a hot game was progressing to the final and thrilling stages in the alley next to this store-keeper's place of business. A person entered his store. A traveling man saw him and went to the merchant.

"There's a customer in your store," he said to the store-keeper, thinking to get in his good graces and possibly sell him some "goods."

"Pst, wait a minute. Maybe he'll go out," replied the merchant, so intent on the game that he never took his eyes off the ground.

Buick Dealers Declare Motor Car

Service is all Important

Factor.

SPEAKS FROM EXPERIENCE

Knecht and Gartin Defines Policies on Which Company Has Built Success.

Now that most of the motor car companies have made their 1916 announcements there is a great deal of talk in motoring circles concerning the prices at which the new cars are to be sold. Along with these discussions there has also been much talk concerning the lowest price at which a satisfactory motor car can be marketed.

"The average motor car buyer has a tendency to look at these questions from a mistaken perspective," said Edmund Gartin, local retailer of Buick cars, recently. "A great many of our automobile buying friends do not take sufficient pains to make sure of getting a satisfactory car. They pay the closest attention to price, because price is the thing that concerns them most at the time of making their purchase. Later, however, they find out that motor car service is vastly more important than motor car price.

There is a minimum below which it is impossible to sell a satisfactory motor car; that is, a car that will give satisfactory service. The Buick Motor company always has been guided by that great truth in making and selling cars. Buick prices are made as low as it is possible to make them, and at the same time deliver a car that will give the motoring satisfaction the average buyer expects.

"Buick cars could be made to sell for less, but they wouldn't be as good as the Buick cars we are now making. We probably could sell a great many more Buicks if we were to make the kind of cars that would justify a lower price; but we prefer to keep our quality standards at their present high level. We are positive that this policy will pay us and pay our customers in the long run."

THIS DAY WAS REAL FOR SURE SCORCHER

Temperature Mounts to Ninety Degrees, the Highest Mark Reached so Far This Summer.

KICKERS MUST BE SATISFIED

This day was a scorcher! The man in the shop, the man in the office, the man in the harvest field, the man in the store and even the loafer on the street—of which there were few today—all testified to this fact.

It was easily the hottest day of the summer. Thermometers in the down-town district this afternoon ranged from eighty-six to ninety degrees. The latter was the highest shade temperature recorded today.

Lots of folks have been raising an awful howl and kicking for warm weather all summer. It is now hoped that they will be satisfied. The weather man says the sun will continue to shine brightly and that there will be no temperature change for the present. It pleases farmers because it is the kind of weather they need to get through the harvest.

his residence thinking that they would soon retire. I remained until they finally went out of the store and turned their course to the west. When they passed out I also went out on the porch and walked to its west end. The three men were walking abreast, Elisha Clark in the middle; just then the gate opened and Swanson advanced three or four steps and in an instant presented and fired his rifle. Clark fell and Lewis Clark and Blackledge sprang upon Swanson and a fierce struggle ensued, the men rolling over on a pile of lumber that lay there. At that moment Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Cruzan and Polly Swanson, a stout girl of eighteen, rushed to the rescue and instantly freed Swanson from the hands of Clark and Blackledge. He picked up his gun and returned through the same gate. My father and the two men took up the murdered man and laid him on a long table in our kitchen. He gave one or two convulsive gasps after they took hold of him and all was over. The ball had passed through his heart.

Lewis Clark and Blackledge appeared to be bewildered by the dreadful catastrophe and the liquor they had drunk, so that for the time they were incapable of any action. As it was necessary to give the alarm to the neighbors, my father proposed going to John Mungle's and to my Uncle Isaac Arnold's, but as I knew that Swanson entertained a bitter hatred toward him because he would not let him have the farm another year, and as his fierce passions were now fully aroused, I feared that he would way lay and kill my father if he left the house on that errand, and I therefore insisted that he should remain and that I would go, for I was swift of foot in those days and had no fear of his catching me by running, nor did I fear his rifle shot in the thick woods, for the night was dark. I went and as I dashed through the gate towards the east, I heard someone breaking through the brush by the side of the road. I supposed it was Swanson and I was right, for after he was taken he said he was watching for my father, thinking it probable he would take that direction. He made no attempt to molest me and I ran on to Mungle's. But he would not turn out until I went and got my uncle Isaac and a hired hand.

When we got to my father's, we found that Blackledge was gone to George Tion's, where there was a singing school. In a short time he returned with several men, and as the alarm was given they continued to come in until late at night. Clark's family consisting of a wife and six daughters, and I shall never forget their frantic screams and agonizing cries as they embraced the cold and inanimate form of the kind husband and loving father, who had but a few hours before left them in possession of vigorous health and strength. I have since then witnessed many pathetic scenes beside the bed of death, but I recollect none equal to this in its terrible despair and utter abandonment to grief for this awful and sudden bereavement.

The next day the whole country was aroused and the woods far and near were scoured by the excited people, but in vain, for Swanson had made good his escape. A reward was offered for his apprehension, but he was too old a woodsman to leave any traces by which he could be followed. His house was watched for some time every night in the expectation that he would return to see his family.

At last he was taken about two weeks after the murder by Jerry Washam, who lived about a half mile this side of Williams creek on what is now Connorsville and Rushville pike. He was building the old house that still stands on his farm and had two carpenters working on it. He was clearing up the field south of it and one morning went out to stir up his log heaps before daylight, and saw beside one of them a man wrapped in his blanket and the barrel of a rifle protruding from it. Believing it to be Swanson, he hurriedly returned to the house and then accompanied by the two carpenters cautiously approached the sleeper and secured the gun before he was aroused. As soon as he was awake he realized the situation and coolly observed; "Washam, I have slept to late," and made no attempt at resistance or escape, for it would have been useless. Washam put him in a wagon, took him to Rushville, delivered him to the authorities and received the reward.

He laid in jail five months until court sat in April, 1829, and he was tried. The presiding judge was Bethuel F. Morris, the associate judges were John Gregg and Montgomery McCall, the prosecuting attorney was William W. Wick, the attorney for the defense was Charles H. Test and the sheriff William S. Bussell. The jurors who tried Swanson were James Tyler, Beverly R. Ward, John Holman, William Birt, John Lewis, Charles W. Morrow, John Queery, James H. Klemman, John Harecoat, Wilson Laughlin, Abner Conde and Wilan W. Milton. He was tried on the 9th of April. Wick was a cool strong man well versed in law and prosecuted the case with great vigor. The defense was ably conducted by Test, who was young and ambitious and most anxious to distinguish himself as a criminal lawyer. He had been successful in one or two previous cases, and remarked to a friend that if he could clear Swanson his fortune would be made. I was, of course, an important witness, as I had seen the whole affair, and although my first appearance in a court of justice, I was able to give a clear and connected account of the terrible tragedy.

I shall never forget the events of that day; the most minute circumstances are indelibly impressed on the tablets of memory. When the jury came in, the most intense excitement prevailed in the court room; not the slightest sound disturbed the utter silence as the foreman arose and read; "We the jurors impaneled for the trial of Edward I. Swanson, having heard all of the evidence for and against him, do unanimously find him guilty in manner and form, as he stands charged in the indictment aforesaid." The defense filed exceptions and demanded new trial. The next day the exceptions were argued, the judge overruled them and decided they were insufficient to warrant a new trial and proceeded, after some touching and appropriate remarks, to pronounce the dread sentence of the law, that on Monday, the 11th day of May, 1829, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., he should be hanged and by his death on the gallows expiate his crime against society and give warning to all to restrain their blood thirsty propensities. Test besieged the governor with petitions for pardon, but he very properly declined to interfere with the course of the law, rightly judging that a jury of disinterested men, who had heard all of the evidence, were better prepared to do justice in the case than himself.

The dread day to the wretched prisoner soon rolled around, and in the midst of a hollow square formed by the military he calmly met his ignominious death. He died with the stoical indifference of the Indian warrior. The vast crowd, drawn from all parts of the country by a morbid curiosity, failed to detect any blanching of cheek or giving of lip as the fatal cap was drawn over his face by Sheriff Bussell, preparatory to launching him into eternity. The noose and the knot were accurately adjusted and he was swung off, and after a few convulsive struggles, he was forever still; all was over, justice was vindicated and thereby society protected—all assented to the fitness of the doom.

The gallows stood on the hill about where the alley west of Dr. Pugh's crosses the railroad in Rushville. (The property referred to is now the R. J. Wilson property at the corner of Main and Fourth streets.) Previous to his death another peculiarity had cropped out; though he feared not death he, strangely enough, had a horrible dread that his body would fall into the hands of doctors and be subjected to the mutilations of the dissecting table. To prevent this dreaded result, he had obtained the solemn promise, guaranteed by three of his friends, that they would take charge of the body and bury it where it might rest in peace, undisturbed by the scientific strokes of the surgeon's knife. These men, David Looney, John Hughes and Lewis Smith proved true to their trust. The body was put in Smith's wagon and hauled to Looney's house; then in the still hours of the night it was taken out into a clearing east and a little south of the house, where he was deposited in a grave and a large brush pile built over it, and as there were many more piles around it would attract no attention itself and would conceal the newly moved earth. The next day Looney was out at work in his clearing, burning brush, and this completely effaced any trace of the recent burial. For over forty-five years the grain and grass have grown over his last resting place, but no man can point out the precise spot where the mortal remains of Edward I. Swanson still rest undisturbed.

There is nothing more of interest to relate, unless I briefly allude to the cause of discord that led to the murder of Clark. The Swanson family were on terms of the most friendly relations with Robert Cruzan's family. Mrs. Cruzan was a fine looking woman and a good neighbor, but it seemed that years ago previous to her marriage, there had been in circulation reports most damaging to her character. Clark had revived and circulated these stories through the neighborhood, thereby exciting intense indignation of the subject of them. She made her husband fight Clark, but the result was not decisive, and he refused to try it again. Swanson and family thoroughly sympathized with the Cruzans and severely denounced Clark. This led to a bitter quarrel between the parties, which ultimately culminated in the slaying of Clark; but as there had been no trouble on that day or for some time previous, no one was expecting so terrible a result; they did not know that Swanson never forgot nor forgave, but could patiently bide his time. I think he had fixed on that day to revenge himself not only on Clark, but also on Jacob Milbourn, who had in some way kindled a hatred which nothing but blood could satisfy. As soon as the muster was over Mr. Milbourn started for home; in a little while Swanson got his gun and started in the same direction. After a time he returned, and in reply to a question of where he had been, said that he had seen a big buck in the woods, but was unable to get a shot, as he had got too good a start of him. It appears that Milbourn, being in a hurry, had started on a run and kept it up until he reached home. After his conviction Swanson said that he could die happy if he had only been able to kill Milbourn and my father as well as Clark.

SWANSON DIED WITH INDIFFERENCE OF INDIAN

his residence thinking that they would soon retire. I remained until they finally went out of the store and turned their course to the west. When they passed out I also went out on the porch and walked to its west end. The three men were walking abreast, Elisha Clark in the middle; just then the gate opened and Swanson advanced three or four steps and in an instant presented and fired his rifle. Clark fell and Lewis Clark and Blackledge sprung upon Swanson and a fierce struggle ensued, the men rolling over on a pile of lumber that lay there. At that moment Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Cruzan and Polly Swanson, a stout girl of eighteen, rushed to the rescue and instantly freed Swanson from the hands of Clark and Blackledge. He picked up his gun and returned through the same gate. My father and the two men took up the murdered man and laid him on a long table in our kitchen. He gave one or two convulsive gasps after they took hold of him and all was over. The ball had passed through his heart.

Lewis Clark and Blackledge appeared to be bewildered by the dreadful catastrophe and the liquor they had drunk, so that for the time they were incapable of any action. As it was necessary to give the alarm to the neighbors, my father proposed going to John Mungle's and to my Uncle Isaac Arnold's, but as I knew that Swanson entertained a bitter hatred toward him because he would not let him have the farm another year, and as his fierce passions were now fully aroused, I feared that he would way lay and kill my father if he left the house on that errand, and I therefore insisted that he should remain and that I would go, for I was swift of foot in those days and had no fear of his catching me by running, nor did I fear his rifle shot in the thick woods, for the night was dark. I went and as I dashed through the gate towards the east, I heard someone breaking through the brush by the side of the road. I supposed it was Swanson and I was right, for after he was taken he said he was watching for my father, thinking it probable he would take that direction. He made no attempt to molest me and I ran on to Mungle's. But he would not turn out until I went and got my uncle Isaac and a hired hand.

When we got to my father's, we found that Blackledge was gone to George Tion's, where there was a singing school. In a short time he returned with several men, and as the alarm was given they continued to come in until late at night. Clark's family consisting of a wife and six daughters, and I shall never forget their frantic screams and agonizing cries as they embraced the cold and inanimate form of the kind husband and loving father, who had but a few hours before left them in possession of vigorous health and strength. I have since then witnessed many pathetic scenes beside the bed of death, but I recollect none equal to this in its terrible despair and utter abandonment to grief for this awful and sudden bereavement.

The next day the whole country was aroused and the woods far and near were scoured by the excited people, but in vain, for Swanson had made good his escape. A reward was offered for his apprehension, but he was too old a woodsman to leave any traces by which he could be followed. His house was watched for some time every night in the expectation that he would return to see his family.

At last he was taken about two weeks after the murder by Jerry Washam, who lived about a half mile this side of Williams creek on what is now Connorsville and Rushville pike. He was building the old house that still stands on his farm and had two carpenters working on it. He was clearing up the field south of it and one morning went out to stir up his log heaps before daylight, and saw beside one of them a man wrapped in his blanket and the barrel of a rifle protruding from it. Believing it to be Swanson, he hurriedly returned to the house and then accompanied by the two carpenters cautiously approached the sleeper and secured the gun before he was aroused. As soon as he was awake he realized the situation and coolly observed; "Washam, I have slept to late," and made no attempt at resistance or escape, for it would have been useless. Washam put him in a wagon, took him to Rushville, delivered him to the authorities and received the reward.

He laid in jail five months until court sat in April, 1829, and he was tried. The presiding judge was Bethuel F. Morris, the associate judges were John Gregg and Montgomery McCall, the prosecuting attorney was William W. Wick, the attorney for the defense was Charles H. Test and the sheriff William S. Bussell. The jurors who tried Swanson were James Tyler, Beverly R. Ward, John Holman, William Birt, John Lewis, Charles W. Morrow, John Queery, James Hackleman, John Harecoat, Wilson Laughlin, Abner Conde and Wilan W. Milton. He was tried on the 9th of April. Wick was a cool strong man well versed in law and prosecuted the case with great vigor. The defense was ably conducted by Test, who was young and ambitious and most anxious to distinguish himself as a criminal lawyer. He had been successful in one or two previous cases, and remarked to a friend that if he could clear Swanson his fortune would be made. I was, of course, an important witness, as I had seen the whole affair, and although my first appearance in a court of justice, I was able to give a clear and connected account of the terrible tragedy.

I shall never forget the events of that day; the most minute circumstances are indelibly impressed on the tablets of memory. When the jury came in, the most intense excitement prevailed in the court room; not the slightest sound disturbed the utter silence as the foreman arose and read; "We the jurors impaneled for the trial of Edward I. GLASS OF SALTS
CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

His Speech Popularly Believed to Have Saved Thomas Gouge From a Prison Term.

IN TRIAL AT GREENSBURG

In His Twenty-Seventh Murder Case, Local Man Delivered Best Pleading Ever Heard.

All three Greensburg newspapers give James E. Watson of this city credit for saving Thomas Gouge, Newpoint marshal, from a prison term in the case against him which ended in the Decatur circuit court at Greensburg yesterday when the jury disagreed. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction.

"Watson's address turned the trick and may have been the means of saving Thomas Gouge from a prison term, was the opinion generally expressed on all sides Monday when the Gouge jury reported a disagreement," says the Greensburg Times.

"While each attorney who pleaded in the murder case," says the Greensburg News, "is to be congratulated upon the excellence of his argument, naturally, silver-tongued Jim Watson proved the most interesting to the spectators, due to his national reputation as a criminal lawyer, ability as a statesman, and eloquence of language.

"Watson was trying his twenty-seventh murder case and he closed the argument for the defense. Talking an hour and thirty minutes, he delivered the greatest pleading ever heard in the Decatur court room. He first took up second degree murder and analyzed it, citing the law in degree of penalty on conviction and then showed why this charge did not effect his client. In turn, voluntary and involuntary manslaughter was thus dealt with, and after this came the question of reasonable doubt as to the defendant's guilt. His touching appeal in which he asked the jury not to deprive Gouge of his liberty, on so plain a case of accidental shooting, as he termed it, was one of the most splendid and masterful pleas ever heard here."

"Chief interest centered in the plea of James E. Watson, of Rushville, for the defense, and the court room was literally packed and jammed full of people when he made his argument. After his talk the jury was taken to supper and brought back to hear the closing argument," says the Greensburg Review.

The jury was out 38 hours and were hopelessly deadlocked apparently soon after receiving the instructions of the court. Monday morning there were 10 for acquittal and 2 for conviction. Judge Wickens called the jury into the court Monday morning and then sent them back to their room.

At 11 o'clock they were called out again and discharged. Gouge was then placed under a bond of $10,000, which he said he would be able to secure before night. His lawyers apparently are confident that he will ultimately gain his liberty.

While it is admitted that the evidence against Gouge, the Newpoint Marshal who was indicted for causing the death of Willis Wolfe on June 3, was indifferent, James E. Watson, received popular credit for turning the tide in Gouge's favor.

Watson spoke for an hour and a half Saturday evening, and the effect upon the great crowd that heard him was apparent. Watson's address is said to have been a masterpiece and some esteem it as the best speech he ever made before a jury.

will have a call meeting tonight at seven-thirty o'clock to make arrangements for the funeral of Mrs. Thomas Felts. All members are urged to be present.

The H. H. of Ruth will give a supper at the Odd Fellows hall in Second street tomorrow evening, beginning at five o'clock. All are cordially invited.

CONTRACT AWARDED
FOR MASONIC HOME

Work on New Institution to be Built by Indiana Grand Lodge Will Start by August 1.

INDIANAPOLIS FIRM WINS

Local Masons are much interested in the construction of the Indiana State Masonic Home at Franklin, the contract for which was let to the State Construction Co., of Indianapolis. Work on the buildings is to commence before August 1st.

The contract for the big project was awarded to the Indianapolis concern by the Grand Lodge committee at an adjourned meeting held in Indianapolis. The estimates on which the contract was awarded were: Administration building, $84,700; two cottages, $25,860; hospital, $11,870; laundry, $7,294, and power house, making a total bid for the entire contract of $149,779.

However, it is understood the State Construction company agreed to make several reductions on its bid and the final total probably will be reduced from $5,000 to $10,000.

The steam heating, plumbing and drainage contract was combined and awarded to Woollen & Cotton on their bid of $41,500.

The electrical contract was given to Hatfield Electrical Company at $11,704.

(Would Never Consent to German Proposal That German Interned Ships Resume Sailings.

SO INFORM WASHINGTON

BY ED L. KEENE.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, July 13.—The allies, I was reliably informed today, would not consent to any arrangement between Germany and the United States by which interned German liners would resume their sailings under the American flag with a German-American understanding that they earned no contraband to England.

Cable dispatches from the Berlin bureau of the United Press reporting that the German foreign office had approved such a proposal brought the unanimous opinion that both the British and French foreign offices would state flatly to Washington, if such a proposal were made, that it could not be entertained by the allies.

FIRST WHEAT ARRIVES.

The first new wheat arrived in Rushville yesterday afternoon and was received by the Winkler Grain company. The wheat was from the Earl Mull farm, north of the city, and was said to be good in quality. The wheat graded sixty pounds to the bushel and is said to have averaged about twenty bushels to the acre. Mr. Mull was the first man in Rush county to begin cutting wheat and now he takes another first by threshing.

D. D. D. In Hospitals;
Standard Skin Cure

How many hospital patients, suffering the frightful itch, the raw scorching pain of skin disease, have been soothed to sleep by a soothing fluid washed in by the nurse's hands? That fluid is the famous D. D. D. prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institute on application), writes regarding a patient: "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.

JITNEY BUS IS STILL ON TRIAL

Success of the Five Cent Auto Not Yet Determined in Indiana—Two Problems Ahead.

FAILS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Two Hundred Operating At Terre Haute and Drivers Have Formed a Union—Other Cities.

FIGHT ON JITNEYS.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—The T. H. I & E. Traction company today filed with the public service commission a long petition asking for an order placing those operating jitney busses under the commission and declaring the busses public utilities. The commission set July 22 as the date of the hearing.

BY DAN L. BEEBE.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, July 13.—The jitney bus is still in the trial stages in Indiana. Although every city has its jitney bus line or lines, the busy little autos have not yet demonstrated that they are a permanent fixture as competitors for the street cars.

Two big problems face the jitney bus owner—to make it pay at a nickel a ride and to weather the coming winter.

That the traction companies already have been hit a stiff jolt in several cities, there is no doubt. Particularly in Terre Haute is this true. While making a living, the auto drivers are taking away many nickels that formerly were clear profit for the traction owners.

In Terre Haute alone have the jitney men organized. They have a labor union there and are systematically forming schedules.

Indianapolis turned the cold shoulder on the innovation. It was something new—and Indianapolis likes the old and dignified ways of doing things. Only four jitneys are running here, and they are irregular.

The United Press today obtained from various cities information concerning that little bus. Many of the cities reported that the chief objection to the jitney is that it does not establish new lines but follows those established by the street cars.

200 At Terre Haute.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., July 13.—Over two hundred "jitneys" are now holding forth in this city and battling with the street car company for popularity. Of this number 150 belong to local union No. 168, affiliated with the C. L. U., organized over two months ago. J. C. Holden is the president. Many of the remaining jitney owners are expected to join.

The union is planning to establish regular schedules over the city. Some of the busses make two and three mile runs to Suburbs. A large jitney just received by A. C. Ward carries 15 passengers and runs between the up town district and West Terre Haute. Another large jitney carrying an equal number of passengers is operated by Earl Herkless, secretary of the union. The jitney has been a popular means of transportation with Terre Haute people ever since the first one made its appearance early in April. Despite inroads on the street car company's business no attempt has been made to improve the street railway system. While there has been talk of regulating the jitneys and placing the owners under bond no action has been taken by the city administration.

Hurts Car Company.

(By United Press.)

Evansville, Ind., July 13.—Severe regulation is threatened for the jitneys in Evansville. They have not proved that they will make money for their proprietors, but they have proved that they can inflict a serious loss on the street car company.

"The jitneys except one, add nothing to the public service," said Mayor Busse, "the simply run along the street car lines and steal

1916 Hupmobile $115 Lower in Price $200 Greater in Value

These two facts about the 1916 Hupmobile make this the most important announcement this company has ever made

The 1916 Hupmobile is priced at $1085—$115 less than our 1915 model.

Yet we have gone to greater lengths than ever before to maintain the Hupmobile reputation for quality. The new Hupmobile has twenty per cent more power, giving a quicker pickup, an even stronger pull on hills and in sand, and slower running on high speed. Note these mechanical features: Tungsten steel valves, disc clutch with 17 hardened steel plates, bronze-shell motor bearings, spiral bevel gears in rear axle, nickel steel axle shafts, vanadium steel mainleaf in springs, tubular propeller shaft. Compare these features with any car on the market.

The 1916 Hupmobile maintains the reputation of earlier Hupmobiles for economy. It will probably reduce the Hupmobile repair cost record of less than 1/4 cent per mile. Though twenty per cent more powerful, it is a fit companion for our earlier models in gasoline mileage, tire service, and oil consumption.

We have been told countless times that the 1915 Hupmobile is the easiest riding car ever built. The 1916 Hupmobile is more comfortable. The upholstery is deeper. Genuine high grade hair and improved cushion construction give the comfort of an old shoe. Springs are even more flexible and easy riding. Tires are large in proportion to weight. The 119-inch wheelbase cradles you over bumps and smooths rough roads.

The upholstery is genuine high grade leather. The open bodies are lined, with no highly polished surface exposed to scratches or mars. Floor-boards and clear running-boards are best linoleum. The tonneau is richly carpeted.

The 1916 Hupmobile has the famous Bijur system for electric starting and lighting. This equipment is used on some of the highest priced cars. Latest improved battery ignition—surest and simplest built—is used. In our own shops we build the genuine Golde one-man top and Collins quick-acting curtains. Five demountable rims, complete electric lighting equipment, latest and best speedometer, an exclusive design rain vision and ventilating windshield, Hupmobile patented tail light, genuine crown fenders, non-skid tires on the rear wheels, are regular equipment on the 1916 cars.

You get these many improvements at $1085 for the five-passenger touring car or roadster. Compared with our previous cars the 1916 model is not only a bigger value but it is offered to you at a reduction of $115.

These two results have been accomplished—first, by a fifty per cent increase in production for 1916, which means better materials at lower cost and greatly reduced overhead cost per car; second, by an increase of factory facilities and improvement of factory methods—new machinery and new processes enable the company to build better at lower factory cost; third, we are confident that no car on the market is sold on a narrower margin of profit than the 1916 Hupmobile.

In considering this car, please remember that the Hupp Motor Car Company is one of the few manufacturers in the United States that have never built a poor car or had an off year. Wherever you go you will hear the Hupmobile spoken of as a car of most unusual value at its price. That is why "we believe the Hupmobile to be the best car of its class in the world." That creed of ours is fact to Hupmobile owners.

The reputation of quality in our cars is the biggest asset of our business. And we guard it most jealously.

So when we tell you the 1916 Hupmobiles are the best cars this company has ever built, and when its best cars are offered at a reduction in price, you may well take our word for it that you will make no mistake in selecting a Hupmobile.

But we don't ask you to accept our word alone.

Please let us show you in an actual merit test that the 1916 Hupmobile is just what we say—truly "the best car of its class in the world."

the street car company's business. Why don't they make new routes that are not now served by street cars, like the jitney that runs to Locust Hill cemetery?"

Police Chief Schmitt proposes to compel the jitneys to put up $500 bond for damages in case of accidents. There have been but two considerable accidents. One in which a "jitney girl," now out of business, ran down a man, his leg being broken, and the other in which a buggy was badly damaged without injury to the riders. Already they are compelled to take out a state automobile license, chauffeur's license, and commercial car license.

There are five jitney lines, with several cars on each. The largest is a seven passenger car in service between Evansville and Howell, a suburb.

Not Getting Rich

(By United Press.)

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 13.—Fort Wayne is operating from 30 to 35 jitneys and while they are cutting the traction company's receipts in the sum of about $80 a day, none of the jitney drivers are getting rich. Several have dropped out of the game but others spring up in their places. Most of the jitneys here run only through the rush hours.

May Extend Service.

(By United Press.)

Brazil, Ind., July 13.—The jitney

bus has had little effect on the local situation as yet. Only six or seven jitneys are in service and some of them only operate in the evening and on Sundays. The action of the traction company in taking off 16 of its regular cars on June 20th, many of which were for local service between this city and Knightsville and Harmony on the east and Bulltown and Bloverland on the west, probably will result in a more extensive jitney service.

Steady at Muncie.

(By United Press.)

Muncie, Ind., July 13.—The jitney bus appeared early at Muncie, and has stayed pretty steadily on the job. Several city routes have been developed, one line using a large car of the omnibus type. A later development is the establishment of lines to nearby towns paralleling in most cases interurban lines.

The street car company has taken no steps to oppose the jitney lines, although they have the habit of running immediately ahead of the street cars and along the same routes. The jitney line operators claim that they are making a substantial profit, although many doubt whether depreciation of cars and the possibilities of accidents are included in the calculations.

There have been one or two accidents. The council has taken no steps looking to any regulation of the jitney lines, but it is assured this will come if the feature proves permanently. Muncie has one girl bus operator who declares that she is in the business principally because she loves to run a car constantly.

Got His Wife Through Matrimonial Agency But it Proved Costly in The End

ALIMONY IN THE SUM OF $5,500

(By United Press.)

Goshen, Ind., July 13.—The final chapter in George Geyer's experience with a matrimonial agency must be completed before tomorrow afternoon. In that chapter Geyer will pay for his experience. It will cost him $5,600 and court costs.

Several years ago Geyer and "the woman in the case" met through a matrimonial agency. Geyer, who is a farmer and worth $100,000 was soon married. But the agency failed to guarantee that they live happily ever after. Mrs. Geyer was given $5,500 with her divorce, Geyer was ordered to pay $100 attorney fees and the court costs. The time to pay up expires tomorrow.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. CONNERSVILLE IS HERE SUNDAY

First Game of Series With These Old Rivals is Scheduled For Edgewater Park.

RUSHERS ADD ONE NEW MAN

Brientenstien Will Play Right Field.—Remington Will Use Reiss in Box.

Connerville and Rushville will start on a series of games, the first to be played here next Sunday. Jack Remington, manager of the Connerville team was in the city yesterday and the club directors came to terms with him regarding the series.

These two teams have always been great rivals and the fans here would rather see the Rushers beat Connerville than any team around here. Rushville has one victory to its credit over Connerville this year and it is safe to say they are coming here for revenge.

The Connerville team will be accompanied here by a large crowd of rooters. Because of the traction service between here and Connerville several hundred fans will make the trip here. Under the terms of agreement both teams will be prevented from running in a "ringer" and the series will be finished with the same men that start it. A double umpiring system will be used. Rushville has selected Jack England and Charles Fiegart will likely be Mr. Remington's choice. As the two teams are great rivals and will fight to the last ditch it was thought best for the interest of the game to have two umpires and in this way the fans will be assured high class ball.

The Rushville team will present its regular lineup with the addition of one man. Bill Brientenstien will play right field. He played one game here this year at third base and his work greatly pleased the fans. He is a fast man and by placing him in right field the team should be strengthened. Earl Hewitt will do the pitching with Bob Goodfellow receiving. George Rohe, former White Sox star will be seen at first base as usual and the rest of the team remains the same.

Connerville will present practically the same lineup as at the start of the season. Jack Reiss, the star pitcher of the Remington clan, will work here Sunday. The game will be called at 2:45 o'clock.

LANSING KEEPS HIS OWN COUNSEL

Secretary of State Has Nothing to Say About Nature of Reply to Germany he is Framing.

WILSON MAY RETURN SOON

Nothing Positive Will be Given Out White House.

Until President is Back in the

(By United Press.) Washington, July 13.—Secretary of State Lansing was keeping his own counsel today concerning the nature of the reply he was framing to the latest note from Berlin.

So far as could be learned, he had not taken a single person into his confidence. He was quite as reticent, in fact, as the president himself.

President Wilson probably will return to Washington the latter part of this week, Secretary Tumulty said today.

This, he added, was a "guess" but he spoke so confidently that it was believed he based it on pretty definite information.

The expectation was that nothing positive would be given out until the president actually is back in the white house.

Asked today if he was looking up any new law points in connection with the note, Secretary Lansing said he did not see that any new points were presented. This has strengthened the belief that the next note would be practically a reiteration of its predecessors, so expressed, if possible, as to leave Germany no escape from a point-blank reply.

Noblesville, Ind., July 13.—Miss Inex Burk and Franklin Taylor, who were arrested at Pekin, Ill., Saturday, charged with murdering Mrs. Archie McClain in this city a week ago, waived a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Maker here, entered pleas of not guilty and were held to await the action of the grand jury. They arrived here late Sunday night from Illinois.

RUSHVILLE COLONY AT STATE PENAL FARM HOLDING DOWN "REGULAR" JOBS

Half Dozen Prisoners From Here Are Engaged in Hoeing Weeds And Farming Just Now

WILL CAMPBELL IN KITCHEN

The Rushville colony at the state penal farm is enjoying life as much as it could be enjoyed on a 1,500 acre farm working like troopers and living on potatoes and beans. This was the word brought back by Sheriff Cavitt, who took Chase Taylor there yesterday where he joined his father, Alfred Taylor, and brother, Chester. The Rushville colony is now composed of six members, "Nig" Bennett, Emanuel "Danger" Dunwoody, Will Campbell and the three Taylors.

All of the Rushville men have "regular" employment. Campbell is assisting in the kitchen; Dunwoody is hoeing weeds and the rest are making good farmers. Bennett will be the first from here to be released his time being up about Aug. 1.

The state farm is a very busy place, according to Sheriff Cavitt. There are now between 700 and 800 men at the farm and work is being pushed on additional buildings to care for prisoners. The farm is being ditched, and the crops, which will go towards supporting it, are being farmed. The prisoners are guarded more closely at first although not a single prisoner has escaped that has not been recaptured. The largest bunch of prisoners received at one time arrived there last week from Greencastle. The police searched a Pennsylvania freight train and took 35 hoboes from it. The entire bunch of thirty-five were sent to the farm.

Sheriff Cavitt stated that the officials there do not complain on receiving prisoners and are prepared to take care of twice the number that are now there.

SHRINE COUNCIL FORMALLY OPENS

Big Parade Through Streets of Seattle Marks First Event of Annual Session

THREE BIG DANCES TONIGHT

(By United Press.) Seattle, Wash., July 13.—In a gorgeous array of barbaric splendor with more than a hundred highly trained bands and well drilled patrols participating, all garbed in uniforms of brilliant oriental design, the imperial potentate of the Shrine order today was escorted through the streets of Seattle to the Moore theatre to open the forty-first annual session of the organization. The council was officially opened by Potentate Swallowell of Nile Temple, Seattle. Addresses bidding the nobles welcome to the state and city were made by Governor Lister, Mayor Hiram C. Gill, Chairman J. E. Chilberg and Judge Thomas Burke, and were responded to in a fitting manner by the imperial potentate Dr. Frederick R. Smith.

The day will close with three mammoth balls, all taking place at the same time on different floors. The imperial council delegates and their wives at the Hippodrome; the members of the bands and patrols and their wives at the Armory and the rank and file of the order on the new Bell street dock. NEW WRINKLE IS NOT UNDERSTOOD

State Auditor Sends Warrant Covering Sum Due County From School Apportionment.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SIGN IT

And Send it Back, Which Would Mean County Had Money And Then it Didn't

The state officials have "pulled" a new one on the county officials here. A voucher and warrant covering Rush County's portion of the semi-annual school apportionment was received here this morning with directions not to deposit it in the banks, but to endorse and send it back to the treasurer of state. Thus the county gets the $10,539.20 on paper but doesn't get the actual cash.

Deputy Treasurer Frazee was at a loss to understand this kind of business and called the auditor of state's office. He was informed that when the warrant was returned the county would receive a certificate of deposit would do as hard to understand as the money received back from the settlement with the state is immediately divided among the township trustee for school purposes.

Some counties estimate the amount they will receive back from the state and then deduct this amount from the total they send to the state. Officials say that the state auditor's office may be under the impression that Rush county deducted this $10,539.20 from the June settlement, but this was not done and is never done here. The trustees are calling for their money but all the treasurer here has is the warrant with the instruction "not to deposit in a bank."

It is stated that perhaps Dale J. Crittenger, auditor of state, is figuring on keeping this money in Indianapolis banks, but this is impossible as the money has to be distributed here and will be as soon as it is received. The county has the money, but it hasn't. Here-to-fore these state warrants have been deposited in the banks and were payable the same as checks. This was done in the January settlement and the change of business methods is puzzling the officials here. The letter follows:

E. S. Phillips, Governor of Wisconsin, has been invited to make the speech at the Third District love feast, to be held at West Baden, Aug. 12. HARRY CROCKETT DECLARED INSANE

Man Held in Seymour Pending Investigation of Wife's Death Near Glenwood Mentally Off

RAVES ALL NIGHT IN JAIL

Harry Crockett, who has been held in jail in Seymour since July 5 pending the investigation of the death of his wife near Glenwood, Sunday, July 4, was yesterday declared insane by physicians at Seymour and will be taken to the Southeastern Indiana hospital for the insane.

Crockett who was taken into custody on the theory that he was responsible for the death of his wife, and who was fined last week on an old charge of assault and battery, has been acting in a queer manner for several days, and Saturday expressed the belief that he was to be electrocuted. Sunday night his condition grew worse and his screams and wails could be heard for blocks.

He yelled, howled and sang from ten o'clock until half past two Monday morning without a stop, and was at it again Monday morning at five o'clock.

A few visitors at the jail expressed the belief that Crockett was feigning insanity, but the doctor's examination revealed the fact that he was mentally off.

WATER FAMINE IS HISTORY NOW

Reservoir is Running Over And There is no Danger of Recurrence of Old Shortage

METERS ARE RESPONSIBLE

Revenue is Reduced Sixty Per Cent But City Will Not Lose Because of Saving

There is no water famine in sight for Rushville this summer. The city water and light plant has plenty of water, in fact the big reservoir overflows at times and there has not been a single day this summer that the water has not stood at fifteen feet and over, and on one or two occasions some of the wells have been cut off.

This abundance of water is accounted for by the fact that the city is now on a meter system, and there is no waste of water as in former years. The city has installed between 800 and 900 meters in use and there are probably 80 yet to be installed.

At the same time the revenue from water collections has fallen off about sixty per cent. This naturally will hit the city finances hard but now great difficulty is expected as it is pointed out that while the revenue has decreased, the cost of operation has also decreased. Superintendent Mahan stated this morning while the revenue had decreased about sixty per cent there was sixty-five per cent less water consumed this summer in comparison with other years and this decrease in water consumed in a way tends to offset the loss in revenue.

With a less amount of water used the cost of pumping and operating the plant is lessened. At times the compressor at the plant is barely working because the big reservoir is full of water. The saving from coal alone this summer, because of a decrease in water consumed will, it is estimated be about $1,200. This saving in fuel will help offset the loss from revenue. The city officials believe that the added fire protection afforded by an abundance of water is certainly worth the loss in money from revenue.

The revenue loss would not be nearly so great if the public service commission would ever act on the petition of the city asking for an increase in rates and calling for a minimum charge. The commission has evidently been doing a nice case of stalling, according to the officials here. The petition was filed over a year ago and no decision has been reached. The commission is "sore" at the city because of the fight made on the gas cases. The city has filed suit to test the law under which the commission was founded and it is practically certain that this administration will not get any place now with the state body.

Under the minimum charge as asked for by the city, every water tap in this city would net $4 a year whether or not that much water was used and it is figured this would help. The increase in rates asked is from $1.50 a thousand cubic feet to $1.85 a thousand feet. Some persons in the city have used as low as thirty cents worth of water in three months and under the minimum charge the bill would be one dollar. The public service commission is not liked by this administration and it is pretty certain the feeling is mutual, it is said.

The Women's Relief Corps will hold its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock in the court house.

HIGHWAY MEET ON TOMORROW

Marion Association of Commerce Phones Here Urging Automobile Delegation to Come.

LOOP OF DIXIE IS PROPOSED

Following Meeting in Morning Guests Will go to Wabash by Auto For a Smoker.

Tom M. Morgan, business manager of the Marion Association of Commerce in a telephone message here today, urged that Rushville send at least an automobile load of boosters to Marion tomorrow for the meeting to exploit the loop of the Dixie Highway out of Cincinnati by way of this city to Elkhart where it would connect with the Lincoln Highway.

The date of the meeting was originally set for Friday, but it is now announced that it will take place Wednesday instead. According to Mr. Morgan, word has been received from towns all along the line that representatives will be present, with the exception of Greensburg.

The original intention of the Marion Association of Commerce was to run the spur from Cincinnati to Greensburg and thence to Marion and north by way of Rushville. Since Greensburg has not displayed any interest in the project, Rushville is going to propose that the loop pass over "Dixie Short Line" by way of Brookville, which is the logical and short route.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce voted at their last meeting to send a representative to the Marion meeting, but today it was hoped that at least one automobile load would make the trip because of the interest that is being shown.

Mr. Morgan said over the telephone that automobile delegations had reported to him they were coming from all along the territory. He said the first meeting would be held in Marion Wednesday morning at ten o'clock and that in the afternoon the crowd would go by automobile to Wabash, where the Chamber of Commerce will entertain with a smoker.

The Marion Association of Commerce has sent out the following circular appealing to cities in the

GLAD OF CHANCE TO SERVE NATION

Thomas A. Edison Formerly Notifies Secretary Daniels of His Acceptance Today.

ON CIVILIAN NAVAL BOARD

Famous Inventor Says he Had Refrained From Offering His Services—Feels Patriotic Duty.

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 13.—Official notification that Thomas A. Edison will serve gladly on a civilian board of naval invention and development reached Secretary Daniels today.

M. R. Hutchinson, the inventor's personal representative presented the latter's acceptance.

Edison, he said, had refrained from offering his service in the past but now felt that he was called upon to perform a sacred duty for the country he loves and will send a letter in a few days expressing his appreciation of the honor the secretary has conferred on him.

A naval revolution as important as the one caused by the Monitor's invention was predicted by Secretary Daniels as a result of his success in enlisting Edison as the department's advisor.

It was with the warm approval of the naval board that the secretary extended a request to Edison to come to the navy's aid and that he will make a similar request shortly to such others as Orville Wright, John Hays Hamond, Henry Ford, Miskola Telsa, Cooper Hewitt and Professor Lewis Johnson to assist him in making out a series of naval experimental problems. Special attention will be paid to an effort to increase the efficiency of submarines and aeroplanes.

Swanson Died With Stoical Indifference of An Indian

Final Chapter of Life Of Only Man Who Ever Swung From Gallows in Rush County As Related By J. Arnold, An eyewitness.

(This is the second and last of two papers entitled "Reminiscences of An Old Settler," by the late John Arnold, which were published in the Republican forty years ago and dealt with the life and hanging of Swanson, the only man to meet such a fate in Rush county.)

Arnold Home, March 6, 1875. Friend Drebert—I will now, as briefly as possible, give the surroundings and circumstances of the murder of Elish Clark, which happened October 4, 1828.

At that time my father lived on his farm and kept store. He had rented his land to Swanson, who lived in a house not more than a rod from the one in which he himself resided. The two houses were on a line on the north side originally, but my father had subsequently erected the store room and porch the whole length of it, so that the store extended some twenty feet farther north than the house in which Swanson lived. Between the two houses was a board fence with a gate in it.

I mention these particulars so that the readers may clearly understand the circumstances of the killing. On October the 4th the muster was held at my father's store and as was customary on such occasions, the company indulged pretty freely in drinking old Donoghahela whiskey (Bourbon had not then attained its high reputation). In the evening after the rest had gone home, Elish and Lewis Clark and Richard Blackledge still remained in the store. My father was tired and wished to shut up, had gone into

Files Suit Today Against J. Frank Vance Alleging he is an Habitual Drunkard.

WANTS RESTRAINING ORDER

Mary J. Vance filed suit for divorce today from J. Frank Vance, alleging that he is an habitual drunkard and failure to provide. Mrs. Vance asks for the custody of their three children and alimony in the sum of $1,500. The complaint states that they separated on July 9, 1915. She alleges that she was compelled to work in order to help support the family and that he didn't provide. The children are Florence, William and Evelyn.

Mrs. Vance alleges that he is worth $3,000 and at present is threatening to dispose of the property in order to cheat her out of any alimony. She asks that he be restrained from disposing of any of his property and that he not be permitted to come around where she is working. During the pendency of the action she asks $10 a week support money. Mrs. Vance filed a similar suit some time ago, but it was dismissed before it came to trial.

ALIENIST IS GOOD WITNESS FOR THAW

Dr. Austin Flint Maintains One Point That Harry K. is Hopelessly Incurable Paranoiac.

USES EXAMPLE IN COURT

(By United Press.)

New York, July 13.—When Dr. Rustin Flint, the state's star alienist, stepped from the stand today after a hot cross examination, the general verdict was that he had made Harry K. Thaw's best witness. Dr. Flint was able to maintain only one assertion—that Harry K. Thaw is now and always has been a hopelessly incurable paranoiac. Flint was asked whether he regarded Thaw normal at present.

"No, I don't," he said. "I wouldn't call his efforts to hypnotize me right here in the court room those of a normal man."

In the laughter that went up Thaw's voice could be heard.

Obituary.

ROLLEN DAVIS

I cannot praise thee well enough. For, ah, my words are frail. Thy life was full of kindly deeds. And these must tell the tale.

Rollen A. Davis oldest child of William and Harriet Mohler Davis was born in Rushville, Indiana, on May 18, 1854 and after living 61 years, one month and thirteen days, on the afternoon of July 1, 1915, passed away from this life.

Rollen Davis resided near the place of his birth all the years that he lived and, on January 2 in the year 1881 was married to Miss Alice Owens, daughter of John and Susan Owens then residing near Dunreith Indiana.

To this marriage came five children, Vern, Clara, Ethel and Goldie. In 1885 on October 5, little Clayton, age 2 years, died.

This now leaves with the mother, to mourn the loss of a devoted and kind father, Vern, second child. Mrs. Clara Sweet and her two children, Reginald and Denzel and Mrs. Ethel Wright and her two fatherless children Melvin and Opal Wright and Mrs. Goldie Parker with her two children, Alice Mae and Loren.

To Melvin and Opal Wright, Rollen Davis combined not only the care of grandfather but father for these children. As shortly after the death of their father he took them to his home and gave them love and care which they will ever remember as a sweet memory of their dear grandfather.

The mother of Rollen Davis died in the year 1882, on August 2 and nearing 25 years after, his father departed this life on April 11th, 1907.

Rollen Davis was the oldest of a family of nine children, two of these died in infancy, and his sister Katie and Mrs. Anna Clark died after reaching maturity, those that survive to mourn their brother, are Mrs. Calony Redding of Raleigh, Mrs. Charles Black of Krypton, Marshall Davis of Elwood, James Davis of Krypton with William who now resides with Mrs. Redding.

When a man dies his outside world does not ask, how much money did he have, or what great things did he do for the world at large, but it asks, was he a good citizen, a good son, husband and father, was he a good neighbor, industrious and pleasant and agreeable, to live and deal with?

In the case of Rollen Davis all of these essential qualifications can be assured with a hearty yes, for he was all of these, to which was added an extremely gentle disposition a strong noticeable desire if he could say no good of anyone, to not dwell upon their evil.

He belonged to that great army of industrial workers of the world, workman that make for the world's progress and its good and with all of its vast resources for wealth could not for long do without he was closely industrious working early and late for the dear ones in his home to whom he was never cross and unkind and ever thoughtful and loving toward, so intent was he upon his duty that even after death had set its great seal upon him and its order to come away—away from earth and its hardships, he still struggled on at his work, planning to the end to go back to it now very soon, it seems a blessing not given to many that his call was a short one, and to the last he could keep hopefully saying, I am not in pain, I am getting better, and so he was for in eternity there is no sickness. And while we consign the frail body to the earth from which it came, that which is best of him has gone on to where—Beyond the last horizons rim.

Beyond adventures furthest quest, Some where they rise serene and dim.

The Happy Happy hills of rest, Upon their sunny slopes uplift, The castles we have built in vain, While far amid the summer drift, Our faded hopes will bloom again, They all are there the day draws They build the inner lives of men.

The silent, sacred years we deem The might be and the might have been.

Some evening when the sky is gold, We'll follow day into the west, Nor pause, nor heed, till we behold the Happy, Happy hills of rest.

Prompt Achievement
 (Meadville Pa. Tribune-Republican)
 When William McKinley entered the White House on March 4, 1897, after four years of Democratic national control, the session of Congress to undo the prosperity-wrecking and deficit-making laws of the preceding four years was the first thing determined on.

He had the new Congress in session March 15, had a protective tariff bill through the House March 31, and had it enacted into law on July 24. In other words, in less than five months time the Wilson-Gorman law was on the statute books and a prosperity making law was substituted without the loss of valuable time.

Manufacturers and business men responded with enthusiasm to the new prospects, and there followed the greatest era of industrial development the country ever knew.

President McKinley realized his duty as the "advance agent of prosperity." He had no fear of Congress in extra session. "The people have only recently voted that this (a protective tariff enacted) shall be done," he declared in his inaugural, "and nothing is more binding upon the agents of their will than the obligation of immediate action."

The McKinley example of prompt achievement is precisely what the people today are determined shall be followed by the Republican President sure to enter the White House on March 4, 1917. His name is of no great consequence; but his purpose is, and the more closely it parallels the McKinley way of quickly restoring prosperity, the more emphatic will be the majority vote cast for him in the election of 1916.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

THE BEST THING HE DOES.

(Muncie Press.)

William Allen White says that the Republicans of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois are a bunch of thieves, porch climbers and crooks.

Probably the Kansas editor needs the money he receives for writing epithets for the sensational magazines, and if that's the only way he can make his stuff interesting nobody is going to begrudge him what he gets out of it. It has been apparent for a long time that Editor White had worked the ore-bearing stratum out of his literary mine and that there was nothing left for him to dig but muck.

HOOSIER HISTORY

Prepared for the United Press by the Centennial Department of the Indiana Historical Commission.

William Smith, storekeeper and first postmaster of Lafayette was in habit of saluting with a "big gun" on the arrival of the steamboat as they "rounded to" at the foot of Main street. The gun was a stump in front of the store which he bored and charged heavily, setting it off with a slow match. When trade was dull he would fire off the stump in false alarm to bring in the people to trade with him. One day he inserted the plug into the side of the stump facing his store. On hearing the report the villagers ran to see the steamer. On passing the store they saw Enterprising Smith lying on the floor in the midst of broken crockery and debris. The prostrate merchant was picked up and as he began to regain his wits, asked anxiously "Is Monser safe?"—Adapted from Cox, "Old Settlers."

Here's Where The Fun Comes In

Elmer Humes tells a good one on some Milroy Merchant. It is known all over Rush county that Milroy's love for marbles is proverbial. It dates back to the founding of the town. Everybody is a marble fan. It is related that one day a hot game was progressing to the final and thrilling stages in the alley next to this store-keeper's place of business. A person entered his store. A traveling man saw him and went to the merchant.

"There's a customer in your store," he said to the store-keeper, thinking to get in his good graces and possibly sell him some "goods." "Tst, wait a minute. Maybe he'll go out," replied the merchant, so intent on the game that he never took his eyes off the ground.

PUTS QUALITY BEFORE PRICE

Buick Dealers Declare Motor Car Service is all Important Factor.

SPEAKS FROM EXPERIENCE

Knecht and Gartin Defines Policies on Which Company Has Built Success.

Now that most of the motor car companies have made their 1916 announcements there is a great deal of talk in motoring circles concerning the prices at which the new cars are to be sold. Along with these discussions there has also been much talk concerning the lowest price at which a satisfactory motor car can be marketed.

"The average motor car buyer has a tendency to look at these questions from a mistaken perspective," said Edmund Gartin, local retailer of Buick cars, recently. "A great many of our automobile buying friends do not take sufficient pains to make sure of getting a satisfactory car. They pay the closest attention to price, because price is the thing that concerns them most at the time of making their purchase. Later, however, they find out that motor car service is vastly more important than motor car price.

There is a minimum below which it is impossible to sell a satisfactory motor car; that is, a car that will give satisfactory service. The Buick Motor company always has been guided by that great truth in making and selling cars. Buick prices are made as low as it is possible to make them, and at the same time deliver a car that will give the motoring satisfaction the average buyer expects.

"Buick cars could be made to sell for less, but they wouldn't be as good as the Buick cars we are now making. We probably could sell a great many more Buicks if we were to make the kind of cars that would justify a lower price, but we prefer to keep our quality standards at their present high level. We are positive that this policy will pay us and pay our customers in the long run."

THIS DAY WAS REAL FOR SURE SCORCHER

Temperature Mounts to Ninety Degrees, the Highest Mark Reached so Far This Summer.

KICKERS MUST BE SATISFIED

This day was a scorcher! The man in the shop, the man in the office, the man in the harvest field, the man in the store and even the loafer on the street—of which there were few today—all testified to this fact.

It was easily the hottest day of the summer. Thermometers in the down-town district this afternoon ranged from eighty-six to ninety degrees. The latter was the highest shade temperature recorded today.

Lots of folks have been raising an awful howl and kicking for warm weather all summer. It is now hoped that they will be satisfied. The weather man says the sun will continue to shine brightly and that there will be no temperature change for the present. It pleases farmers because it is the kind of weather they need to get through the harvest.

his residence thinking that they would soon retire. I remained until they finally went out of the store and turned their course to the west. When they passed out I also went out on the porch and walked to its west end. The three men were walking abreast, Elisha Clark in the middle; just then the gate opened and Swanson advanced three or four steps and in an instant presented and fired his rifle. Clark fell and Lewis Clark and Blackledge sprang upon Swanson and a fierce struggle ensued, the men rolling over on a pile of lumber that lay there. At that moment Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Cruzan and Polly Swanson, a stout girl of eighteen, rushed to the rescue and instantly freed Swanson from the hands of Clark and Blackledge. He picked up his gun and returned through the same gate. My father and the two men took up the murdered man and laid him on a long table in our kitchen. He gave one or two convulsive gasps after they took hold of him and all was over. The ball had passed through his heart.

Lewis Clark and Blackledge appeared to be bewildered by the dreadful catastrophe and the liquor they had drunk, so that for the time they were incapable of any action. As it was necessary to give the alarm to the neighbors, my father proposed going to John Mungle's and to my Uncle Isaac Arnold's, but as I knew that Swanson entertained a bitter hatred toward him because he would not let him have the farm another year, and as his fierce passions were now fully aroused, I feared that he would way lay and kill my father if he left the house on that errand, and I therefore insisted that he should remain and that I would go, for I was swift of foot in those days and had no fear of his catching me by running, nor did I fear his rifle shot in the thick woods, for the night was dark. I went and as I dashed through the gate towards the east, I heard someone breaking through the brush by the side of the road. I supposed it was Swanson and I was right, for after he was taken he said he was watching for my father, thinking it probable he would take that direction. He made no attempt to molest me and I ran on to Mungle's. But he would not turn out until I went and got my uncle Isaac and a hired hand.

When we got to my father's, we found that Blackledge was gone to George Tion's, where there was a singing school. In a short time he returned with several men, and as the alarm was given they continued to come in until late at night. Clark's family consisting of a wife and six daughters, and I shall never forget their frantic screams and agonizing cries as they embraced the cold and inanimate form of the kind husband and loving father, who had but a few hours before left them in possession of vigorous health and strength. I have since then witnessed many pathetic scenes beside the bed of death, but I recollect none equal to this in its terrible despair and utter abandonment to grief for this awful and sudden bereavement.

The next day the whole country was aroused and the woods far and near were scoured by the excited people, but in vain, for Swanson had made good his escape. A reward was offered for his apprehension, but he was too old a woodsman to leave any traces by which he could be followed. His house was watched for some time every night in the expectation that he would return to see his family.

At last he was taken about two weeks after the murder by Jerry Washam, who lived about a half mile this side of Williams creek on what is now Connorsville and Rushville pike. He was building the old house that still stands on his farm and had two carpenters working on it. He was clearing up the field south of it and one morning went out to stir up his log heaps before daylight, and saw beside one of them a man wrapped in his blanket and the barrel of a rifle protruding from it. Believing it to be Swanson, he hurriedly returned to the house and then accompanied by the two carpenters cautiously approached the sleeper and secured the gun before he was aroused. As soon as he was awake he realized the situation and coolly observed, "Washam, I have slept to late," and made no attempt at resistance or escape, for it would have been useless. Washam put him in a wagon, took him to Rushville, delivered him to the authorities and received the reward.

He laid in jail five months until court sat in April, 1829, and he was tried. The presiding judge was Bethuel F. Morris, the associate judges were John Gregg and Montgomery McCall, the prosecuting attorney was William W. Wick, the attorney for the defense was Charles H. Test and the sheriff William S. Russell. The jurors who tried Swanson were James Tyler, Beverly R. Ward, John Holman, William Birt, John Lewis, Charles W. Morrow, John Queery, James Hackleman, John Harecoat, Wilson Laughlin, Abner Conde and Wilam W. Milton. He was tried on the 9th of April. Wick was a cool strong man well versed in law and prosecuted the case with great vigor. The defense was ably conducted by Test, who was young and ambitious and most anxious to distinguish himself as a criminal lawyer. He had been successful in one or two previous cases, and remarked to a friend that if he could clear Swanson his fortune would be made. I was, of course, an important witness, as I had seen the whole affair, and although my first appearance in a court of justice, I was able to give a clear and connected account of the terrible tragedy.

I shall never forget the events of that day; the most minute circumstances are indelibly impressed on the tablets of memory. When the jury came in, the most intense excitement prevailed in the court room; not the slightest sound disturbed the utter silence as the foreman arose and read; "We the jurors impaneled for the trial of Edward L. Swanson, having heard all of the evidence for and against him, do unanimously find him guilty in manner and form, as he stands charged in the indictment aforesaid." The defense filed exceptions and demanded new trial. The next day the exceptions were argued, the judge overruled them and decided they were insufficient to warrant a new trial and proceeded, after some touching and appropriate remarks, to pronounce the dread sentence of the law, that on Monday, the 11th day of May, 1829, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., he should be hanged and by his death on the gallows expiate his crime against society and give warning to all to restrain their blood thirsty propensities. Test besieged the governor with petitions for pardon, but he very properly declined to interfere with the course of the law, rightly judging that a jury of disinterested men, who had heard all of the evidence, were better prepared to do justice in the case than himself.

The dread day to the wretched prisoner soon rolled around, and in the midst of a hollow square formed by the military he calmly met his ignominious death. He died with the stoical indifference of the Indian warrior. The vast crowd, drawn from all parts of the country by a morbid curiosity, failed to detect any blanching of cheek or giving of lip as the fatal cap was drawn over his face by Sheriff Russell, preparatory to launching him into eternity. The noose and the knot were accurately adjusted and he was swung off, and after a few convulsive struggles, he was forever still; all was over, justice was vindicated and thereby society protected—all assented to the fitness of the doom.

The gallows stood on the hill about where the alley west of Dr. Pugh's crosses the railroad in Rushville. (The property referred to is now the R. J. Wilson property at the corner of Main and Fourth streets.) Previous to his death another peculiarity had cropped out; though he feared not death he, strangely enough, had a horrible dread that his body would fall into the hands of doctors and be subjected to the mutilations of the dissecting table. To prevent this dreaded result, he had obtained the solemn promise, guaranteed by three of his friends, that they would take charge of the body and bury it where it might rest in peace, undisturbed by the scientific strokes of the surgeon's knife. These men, David Looney, John Hughes and Lewis Smith proved true to their trust. The body was put in Smith's wagon and hauled to Looney's house, then in the still hour of the night it was taken out into a clearing east and a little south of the house, where he was deposited in a grave and a large brush pile built over it, and as there were many more piles around it would attract no attention itself and would conceal the newly moved earth. The next day Looney was out at work in his clearing, burning brush, and this completely effaced any trace of the recent burial. For over forty-five years the grain and grass have grown over his last resting place, but no man can point out the precise spot where the mortal remains of Edward L. Swanson still rest undisturbed.

There is nothing more of interest to relate, unless I briefly allude to the cause of discord that led to the murder of Clark. The Swanson family were on terms of the most friendly relations with Robert Cruzan's family. Mrs. Cruzan was a fine looking woman and a good neighbor, but it seemed that years ago previous to her marriage, there had been in circulation reports most damaging to her character. Clark had revived and circulated these stories through the neighborhood, thereby exciting intense indignation of the subject of them. She made her husband fight Clark, but the result was not decisive, and he refused to try it again. Swanson and family thoroughly sympathized with the Cruzans and severely denounced Clark. This led to a bitter quarrel between the parties, which ultimately culminated in the slaying of Clark; but as there had been no trouble on that day or for some time previous, no one was expecting so terrible a result; they did not know that Swanson never forgot nor forgave, but could patiently bide his time. I think he had fixed on that day to revenge himself not only on Clark, but also on Jacob Milbourn, who had in some way kindled a hatred which nothing but blood could satisfy. As soon as the muster was over Mr. Milbourn started for home; in a little while Swanson got his gun and started in the same direction. After a time he returned, and in reply to a question of where he had been, said that he had seen a big buck in the woods, but was unable to get a shot, as he had got too good a start of him. It appears that Milbourn, being in a hurry, had started on a run and kept it up until he reached home. After his conviction Swanson said that he could die happy if he had only been able to kill Milbourn and my father as well as Clark.

I remain Yours respectfully,
J. ARNOLD

"loop" territory to send delegations. The day of rapid transit over the public highways is here. To a certain extent the joy-rider set the pace, and in that particular he is an unintentional benefactor. Commerce has caught up with and is passing the joy-rider. People will travel and they must travel and they must travel fast, for the whole world is in a hurry.

Is your town on a line of travel? Is it on the map? Does it make anything more than a splash of color? Do you want to intensify the color?

Do you want to say "howdy" to the man from a distance? It is up to you to do so.

If a piece of property in a city is valuable in proportion to the people who pass it daily, isn't a town or city, as a whole, valuable for the same reason?

If you want to enhance values, get people to come your way.

The highway meeting at Marion on July 14th will be a co-operative step toward inducing travelers to sweep along over the best hard roads in the Central West. Representatives from LaPorte to Cincinnati have been invited to attend a meeting at Marion, Wednesday, July 14th. Get ready to come. Drive through and tell us about the road. Send a big delegation. Come by train—ride in on the rim—be an optimist—if your spark plug is acting naughty turn on the fluid and come. Bring your enthusiasm with you, and a bunch of your neighbors.

GLASS OF SALTS
CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urines so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

His Speech Popularly Believed to Have Saved Thomas Gouge From a Prison Term.

IN TRIAL AT GREENSBURG

In His Twenty-Seventh Murder Case, Local Man Delivered Best Pleading Ever Heard.

All three Greensburg newspapers give James E. Watson of this city credit for saving Thomas Gouge, Newpoint marshal, from a prison term in the case against him which ended in the Decatur circuit court at Greensburg yesterday when the jury disagreed. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. "Watson's address turned the trick and may have been the means of saving Thomas Gouge from a prison term, was the opinion generally expressed on all sides Monday when the Gouge jury reported a disagreement," says the Greensburg Times.

"While each attorney who pleaded in the murder case," says the Greensburg News, "is to be congratulated upon the excellence of his argument, naturally, silver-tongued Jim Watson proved the most interesting to the spectators, due to his national reputation as a criminal lawyer, ability as a statesman, and eloquence of language.

"Watson was trying his twenty-seventh murder case and he closed the argument for the defense. Talking an hour and thirty minutes, he delivered the greatest pleading ever heard in the Decatur court room. He first took up second degree murder and analyzed it, citing the law in degree of penalty on conviction and then showed why this charge did not effect his client. In turn, voluntary and involuntary manslaughter was thus dealt with, and after this came the question of reasonable doubt as to the defendant's guilt. His touching appeal in which he asked the jury not to deprive Gouge of his liberty, on so plain a case of accidental shooting, as he termed it, was one of the most splendid and masterful pleas ever heard here."

"Chief interest centered in the plea of James E. Watson, of Rushville, for the defense, and the court room was literally packed and jammed full of people when he made his argument. After his talk the jury was taken to supper and brought back to hear the closing argument," says the Greensburg Review.

The jury was out 38 hours and were hopelessly deadlocked apparently soon after receiving the instructions of the court. Monday morning there were 10 for acquittal and 2 for conviction. Judge Wickens called the jury into the court Monday morning and then sent them back to their room.

At 11 o'clock they were called out again and discharged. Gouge was then placed under a bond of $10,000, which he said he would be able to secure before night. His lawyers apparently are confident that he will ultimately gain his liberty.

While it is admitted that the evidence against Gouge, the Newpoint Marshal who was indicted for causing the death of Willis Wolfe, on June 3, was indifferent, James E. Watson, received popular credit for turning the tide in Gouge's favor.

Watson spoke for an hour and a half Saturday evening, and the effect upon the great crowd that heard him was apparent. Watson's address is said to have been a masterpiece and some esteem it as the best speech he ever made before a jury.

The H. H. of Ruth will give a supper at the Odd Fellows hall in Second street tomorrow evening, beginning at five o'clock. All are cordially invited.

CONTRACT AWARDED
FOR MASONIC HOME

Work on New Institution to be Built by Indiana Grand Lodge Will Start by August 1.

INDIANAPOLIS FIRM WINS

Local Masons are much interested in the construction of the Indiana State Masonic Home at Franklin, the contract for which was let to the State Construction Co., of Indianapolis. Work on the buildings is to commence before August 1st.

The contract for the big project was awarded to the Indianapolis concern by the Grand Lodge committee at an adjourned meeting held in Indianapolis. The estimates on which the contract was awarded were: Administration building, $84,700; two cottages, $25,800; hospital, $11,870; laundry, $7,294, and power house, making a total bid for the entire contract of $140,779.

However, it is understood the State Construction company agreed to make several reductions on its bid and the final total probably will be reduced from $5,000 to $10,000.

The steam heating, plumbing and drainage contract was combined and awarded to Woolen & Cotton on their bid of $41,500.

The electrical contract was given to Hatfield Electrical Company at $11,704.

A parcel post social will be held in the parlors of the United Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. The young people will give the play, "The Impersonation of Cimby's Chance." All persons are urged to bring bundles of something that they have no further use for. An offering will be taken. Everyone is invited.

Would Never Consent to German Proposal That German Interned Ships Resume Sailings.

SO, INFORM WASHINGTON

BY ED L. KEENE.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, July 13.—The allies, I was reliably informed today, would not consent to any arrangement between Germany and the United States by which interned German liners would resume their sailings under the American flag with a German-American understanding that they earned no contraband to England.

Cable dispatches from the Berlin bureau of the United Press reporting that the German foreign office had approved such a proposal brought the unanimous opinion that both the British and French foreign offices would state flatly to Washington, if such a proposal were made, that it could not be entertained by the allies.

The first new wheat arrived in Rushville yesterday afternoon and was received by the Winkler Grain company. The wheat was from the Earl Mull farm, north of the city, and was said to be good in quality. Mr. Mull was the first man in Rush county to begin cutting wheat and now he takes another first by threshing.

D. D. D. In Hospitals;
Standard Skin Cure

How many hospital patients, suffering the frightful itch, the raw scorching pain of skin disease, have been soothed to sleep by a soothing fluid washed in by the nurse's hands?

That fluid is the famous D. D. D. Prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institute on application) writes regarding a patient: "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

How many eczema sufferers are paying their doctors for regular treatment and are being treated with this same soothing, healing fluid?

DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON frankly writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied. The skin is soothed—calmed—so thoroughly refreshed—delightfully cooled.

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.

JITNEY BUS IS STILL ON TRIAL

Success of the Five Cent Auto Not Yet Determined in Indiana—Two Problems Ahead.

FAILS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Two Hundred Operating At Terre Haute and Drivers Have Formed a Union—Other Cities.

FIGHT ON JITNEYS.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—The T. H. I. & E. Traction company today filed with the public service commission a long petition asking for an order placing those operating jitney busses under the commission and declaring the busses public utilities. The commission set July 22 as the date of the hearing.

BY DAN L. REEBE

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, July 13.—The jitney bus is still in the trial stages in Indiana. Although every city has its jitney bus line or lines, the busy little autos have not yet demonstrated that they are a permanent fixture as competitors for the street cars.

Two big problems face the jitney bus owner—to make it pay at a nickel a ride and to weather the coming winter.

That the traction companies already have been hit a stiff jolt in several cities, there is no doubt. Particularly in Terre Haute is this true. While making a living, the auto drivers are taking away many nickels that formerly were clear profit for the traction owners.

In Terre Haute alone have the jitney men organized. They have a labor union there and are systematically forming schedules.

Indianapolis "turned the coin" shoulder on the innovation. It was something new—and Indianapolis likes the old and dignified ways of doing things. Only four jitneys are running here, and they are irregular.

The United Press today obtained from various cities information concerning that little bus. Many of the cities reported that the chief objection to the jitney is that it does not establish new lines but follows those established by the street cars.

200 At Terre Haute.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., July 13.—Over two hundred "jitneys" are now holding forth in this city and battling with the street car company for popularity. Of this number 150 belong to local union No. 168, affiliated with the C. L. U., organized over two months ago. J. C. Holden is the president. Many of the remaining jitney owners are expected to join.

The union is planning to establish regular schedules over the city. Some of the busses make two and three mile runs to suburbs. A large jitney just received by A. C. Ward carries 15 passengers and runs between the up town district and West Terre Haute. Another large jitney carrying an equal number of passengers is operated by Earl Herkless, secretary of the union. The jitney has been a popular means of transportation with Terre Haute people ever since the first one made its appearance early in April. Despite inroads on the street car company's business no attempt has been made to improve the street railway system. While there has been talk of regulating the jitneys and placing the owners under bond no action has been taken by the city administration.

Hurts Car Company.

(By United Press.)

Evansville, Ind., July 13.—Severe regulation is threatened for the jitneys in Evansville. They have not proved that they will make money for their proprietors, but they have proved that they can inflict a serious loss on the street car company.

"The jitneys except one, add nothing to the public service," said Mayor Bussie, "they simply run along the street car lines and steal

1916 Hupmobile

$115 Lower in Price

$200 Greater in Value

These two facts about the 1916 Hupmobile make this the most important announcement this company has ever made

The 1916 Hupmobile is priced at $1085—$115 less than our 1915 model.

Yet we have gone to greater lengths than ever before to maintain the Hupmobile reputation for quality. The new Hupmobile has twenty per cent more power, giving a quicker pickup, an even stronger pull on hills and in sand, and slower running on high speed. Note these mechanical features: Tungsten steel valves, disc clutch with 17 hardened steel plates; bronze-shell motor bearings, spiral bevel gears in rear axle, nickel steel axle shafts, vanadium steel mainleaf in springs, tubular propeller shaft. Compare these features with any car on the market.

The 1916 Hupmobile maintains the reputation of earlier Hupmobiles for economy. It will probably reduce the Hupmobile repair cost record of less than 1/4 cent per mile. Though twenty per cent more powerful, it is a fit companion for our earlier models in gasoline mileage, tire service, and oil consumption.

We have been told countless times that the 1915 Hupmobile is the easiest riding car ever built. The 1916 Hupmobile is more comfortable. The upholstery is deeper. Genuine high grade hair and improved cushion construction give the comfort of an old shoe. Springs are even more flexible and easy riding. Tires are large in proportion to weight. The 119-inch wheelbase cradles you over bumps and smooths rough roads.

The upholstery is genuine high grade leather. The open bodies are lined, with no highly polished surface exposed to scratches or mars. Floor-boards and clear running-boards are best linoleum. The tonneau is richly carpeted.

The 1916 Hupmobile has the famous Bijur system for electric starting and lighting. This equipment is used on some of the highest priced cars. Latest improved battery ignition—surest and simplest built—is used. In our own shops we build the genuine Golde one-man top and Collins quick-acting curtains. Five demountable rims, complete electric lighting equipment, latest and best speedometer, an exclusive design rain vision and ventilating windshield, Hupmobile patented tail light, genuine crown fenders, non-skid tires on the rear wheels, are regular equipment on the 1916 cars.

You get these many improvements at $1085 for the five-passenger touring car or roadster. Compared with our previous cars the 1916 model is not only a bigger value but it is offered to you at a reduction of $115.

These two results have been accomplished—first, by a fifty per cent increase in production for 1916, which means better materials at lower cost and greatly reduced overhead cost per car; second, by an increase of factory facilities and improvement of factory methods—new machinery and new processes enable the company to build better at lower factory cost; third, we are confident that no car on the market is sold on a narrower margin of profit than the 1916 Hupmobile.

In considering this car, please remember that the Hupp Motor Car Company is one of the few manufacturers in the United States that have never built a poor car or had an off year. Wherever you go you will hear the Hupmobile spoken of as a car of most unusual value at its price. That is why "we believe the Hupmobile to be the best car of its class in the world." That creed of ours is fact to Hupmobile owners.

The reputation of quality in our cars is the biggest asset of our business. And we guard it most jealously.

So when we tell you the 1916 Hupmobiles are the best cars this company has ever built, and when its best cars are offered at a reduction in price, you may well take our word for it that you will make no mistake in selecting a Hupmobile.

But we don't ask you to accept our word alone.

Please let us show you in an actual merit test that the 1916 Hupmobile is just what we say—truly "the best car of its class in the world."

the street car company's business. Why don't they make new routes that are not now served by street cars, like the 'jitney' that runs to Locust Hill cemetery?"

Police Chief Schmitt proposes to compel the jitneys to put up $500 bond for damages in case of accidents. There have been but two considerable accidents. One in which a "jitney girl," now out of business, ran down a man, his leg being broken, and the other in which a buggy was badly damaged without injury to the riders. Already they are compelled to take out a state automobile license, chauffeur's license, and commercial car license.

There are five jitney lines, with several cars on each. The largest is a seven passenger car in service between Evansville and Howell, a suburb.

Not Getting Rich.

(By United Press.)

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 13.—Fort Wayne is operating from 30 to 35 jitneys and while they are cutting the traction company's receipts in the sum of about $80 a day, none of the jitney drivers are getting rich. Several have dropped out of the game but others spring up in their places. Most of the jitneys there run only through the rush hours.

May Extend Service.

(By United Press.)

Brazil, Ind., July 13.—The jitney bus has had little effect on the local situation as yet. Only six or seven jitneys are in service and some of them only operate in the evening and on Sundays. The action of the traction company in taking off 16 of its regular cars on June 20th, many of which were for local service between this city and Knightstown and Harmony on the east and Bulltown and Bloverland on the west, probably will result in a more extensive jitney service.

Steady at Muncie.

(By United Press.)

Muncie, Ind., July 13.—The jitney bus appeared early at Muncie, and has stayed pretty steadily on the job. Several city routes have been developed, one line using a large car of the omnibus type. A later development is the establishment of lines to nearby towns paralleling in most cases interurban lines.

The street car company has taken no steps to oppose the jitney lines, although they have the habit of running immediately ahead of the street cars and along the same routes. The jitney line operators claim that they are making a substantial profit, although many doubt whether depreciation of cars and the possibilities of accidents are included in the calculations.

There have been one or two accidents. The council has taken no steps looking to any regulation of the jitney lines, but it is assumed this will come if the feature proves permanently. Muncie has one girl bus operator who declares that she is in the business principally because she loves to run a car constantly.

Got His Wife Through Matrimonial Agency But It Proved Costly in The End

(By United Press.)

Goshen, Ind., July 13.—The final chapter in George Geyer's experience with a matrimonial agency must be completed before tomorrow afternoon. In that chapter Geyer will pay for his experience. It will cost him $5,600 and court costs.

Several years ago Geyer and "the woman in the case" met through a matrimonial agency. Geyer, who is 42 years old and worth $100,000, was soon married. But the agency failed to guarantee that they live happily ever after. Mrs. Geyer was given $5,500 with her divorce, Geyer was ordered to pay $100 attorney fees and the court costs. The time to pay up expires tomorrow.

ALIMONY IN THE SUM OF $5,500

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for any good health."—Mrs. J. M. RESCH, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CONNERSVILLE IS HERE SUNDAY

First Game of Series With These Old Rivals is Scheduled For Edgewater Park.

RUSHERS ADD ONE NEW MAN

Brientenstien Will Play Right Field. Remington Will Use Reiss in Box.

Connerville and Rushville will start on a series of games, the first to be played here next Sunday. Jack Remington, manager of the Connerville team was in the city yesterday and the club directors came to terms with him regarding the series.

These two teams have always been great rivals and the fans here would rather see the Rushers beat Connerville than any team around here. Rushville has one victory to its credit over Connerville this year and it is safe to say they are coming here for revenge.

The Connerville team will be accompanied here by a large crowd of rooters. Because of the traction service between here and Connerville several hundred fans will make the trip here. Under the terms of agreement both teams will be prevented from running in a "ringer" and the series will be finished with the same men that start it. A double umpiring system will be used. Rushville has selected Jack England and Charles Fiegart will likely be Mr. Remington's choice. As the two teams are great rivals and will fight to the last ditch it was thought best for the interest of the game to have two umpires and in this way the fans will be assured high class ball.

The Rushville team will present its regular lineup with the addition of one man. Bill Brientenstien will play right field. He played one game here this year at third base and his work greatly pleased the fans. He is a fast man and by placing him in right field the team should be strengthened. Earl Hewitt will do the pitching with Bob Goodfellow receiving. George Rohe, former White Sox star will be seen at first base as usual and the rest of the team remains the same.

Connerville will present practically the same lineup as at the start of the season. Jack Reiss, the star pitcher of the Remington clan, will work here Sunday. The game will be called at 2:45 o'clock.

WOMAN DROWNS.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 13.—Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 28 years old, who came here ten days ago from Peoria, Ill., to visit her uncle, Thomas C. Smith, was drowned in Blue River at the Twin Tree Club, west of here, last evening. She was wading.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duke and Mr. and Mrs. John Walker have returned from Detroit, Mich., where they each purchased a new Hupmobile touring car.

LANSING KEEPS HIS OWN COUNSEL

Secretary of State Has Nothing to Say About Nature of Reply to Germany; he is Framing.

WILSON MAY RETURN SOON

Nothing Positive Will be Given Out Until President is Back in the White House.

Washington, July 13.—Secretary of State Lansing was keeping his own counsel today concerning the nature of the reply he was framing to the latest note from Berlin.

So far as could be learned, he had not taken a single person into his confidence. He was quite as reticent, in fact, as the president himself.

President Wilson probably will return to Washington the latter part of this week, Secretary Tamm said today.

This, he added, was a "guess" but he spoke so confidently that it was believed he based it on pretty definite information.

The expectation was that nothing positive would be given out until the president actually is back in the white house.

Asked today if he was looking up any new law points in connection with the note, Secretary Lansing said he did not see that any new points were presented. This has strengthened the belief that the next note would be practically a reiteration of its predecessors, so expressed, if possible, as to leave Germany no escape from a point-blank reply.

WAR LOAN IS GOING FAST

London, July 13.—Chancellor of the Exchequer McKenna announced in commons this afternoon that subscriptions to the new popular war loan issued by the government had reached a total of $570,000,000 pounds sterling (about in dollars $2,775,900,000.)

An outbreak of cheering followed McKenna's announcement that the total number of subscribers were 550,000.

Germany Hands Note to Ambassador Gerard Promising Full Compensation if Guilty.

TORPEDOING NOT ADMITTED

(By United Press.) Berlin, July 13.—Germany will make full investigation of the reported torpedoing of the American steamer Nebraskan off the southwest coast of Ireland, May 25, and will offer whole compensation if it is found that the explosion that damaged the vessel was caused by a German submarine, it was learned today.

A note dealing with the Nebraskan case was handed to Ambassador Gerard by the foreign office last night. Its contents were cabled to Washington.

RUSHVILLE COLONY AT STATE PENAL FARM HOLDING DOWN "REGULAR" JOBS

Half Dozen Prisoners From Here Are Engaged in Hoeing Weeds And Farming Just Now

WILL CAMPBELL IN KITCHEN

The Rushville colony at the state penal farm is enjoying life as much as it could be enjoyed on a 1,500 acre farm working like troopers and living on potatoes and beans. This was the word brought back by Sheriff Cavitt, who took Chase Taylor there yesterday where he joined his father, Alfred Taylor, and brother, Chester. The Rushville colony is now composed of six members, "Nig" Bennett, Emanuel "Danger" Dunwoody, Will Campbell and the three Taylors.

All of the Rushville men have "regular" employment. Campbell is assisting in the kitchen; Dunwoody is hoeing weeds and the rest are making good farmers. Bennett will be the first from here to be released his time being up about Aug. 1. The state farm is a very busy place, according to Sheriff Cavitt. There are now between 700 and 800 men at the farm and work is being pushed on additional buildings to care for prisoners. The farm is being ditched, and the crops, which will go towards supporting it, are being farmed. The prisoners are guarded more closely at first although not a single prisoner has escaped that has not been recaptured. The largest bunch of prisoners received at one time arrived there last week from Greencastle. The police searched a Pennsylvania freight train and took 35 hoboes from it. The entire bunch of thirty-five were sent to the farm. Sheriff Cavitt stated that the officials there do not complain on receiving prisoners and are prepared to take care of twice the number that are now there.
